An officer reported watching a green 1970 Chevrolet C-30 pickup truck spinning its tires in the 2600 block of Kate Street, throwing rocks on a police car.

Bicyclist, 9, injured

A nine-year-old Granite City girl was seriously injured Tuesday afternoon, when her bicycle was struck by a van on Johnson Road. Alexandra Krinski, of the 3300 block of Franklin Avenue, was carried from the scene by paramedics and taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she was treated for injuries and released.

She and another young girl were riding their bicycles on Wabash Avenue near Johnson Road at 12:28 p.m. Tuesday when the accident occurred. Krinski rode her bicycle across Johnson Road and was struck by a tan 1988 Chevrolet van driven by James Chevrolet, 43, of the 2300 block of O'Hare Avenue, according to a police report.

Indian cooking will be taught

An Indian cooking class highlights November activities at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site near Collinsville.

Evelyn Voelker, director of the American Indian Center of Mid-America in St. Louis, will teach the Indian cooking class on Saturday, Nov. 7, from 1-4 p.m.

Voelker, a full-blooded Comanche, was raised on a reservation in Oklahoma and learned traditional cooking from her people.

She will compare traditional and contemporary cooking from a variety of Indian cultures, and participants will learn to make wild game dumplings, corn soup and fry bread.

Advance registration and a $20 fee are required.

"Indian Diversity," a temporary exhibit, examining the history, culture, subsistence and contemporary developments of Native American groups from the Northeast, Southeast, Southwest and Plains, continues through November.

Cahokia Mounds will be closed to the public on Veterans' Day, Wednesday, Nov. 11, and Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 26.

During the rest of the month, the Interpretive Center is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and the grounds from 8 a.m. to dusk.

Visitors may enjoy the award-winning orientation show and exhibits in the new Interpretive Center, and explore the mounds with self-guiding tours.

For more information, the number is 346-5160.

Prostate screening attracts 317

St. Elizabeth Medical Center offered free prostate screening to all men over the age of 50 on Sept. 26. During the three-hour screening, 317 men participated. This was the sixth year the screening has been held.

"I would like to thank the nurses, urologists, lab personnel and volunteers who participated. They did a wonderful job," said Cindy Johnson, SEMC community education coordinator and the coordinator of the screening.

Participants came from all over southwestern Illinois. A free PSA blood test, which aids in the early detection of prostate cancer, was offered at the screening, in conjunction with examinations by board-certified urologists and urine testing.

Cancer of the prostate is the third most common cause of death among men between 55 and 74, and the second leading cause in men over 75. The American Cancer Society predicts there will be 28,500 deaths due to prostate cancer this year. Early diagnosis is crucial for effective therapy and cure.

For more information on upcoming health screenings at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, persons may call 786-3201.

County may end subsidy to nursing, care homes

A move may be afoot to close the Madison County nursing and sheltered-care homes, two County Board members have charged.

Under a proposed budget for fiscal 1993, which starts Dec. 1, 1992, the County Board's Finance Committee wants to cut off general-fund subsidies to the two homes.

County Board members Al Charleston and Bob Stille angrily objected to the recommendation, saying the new policy appeared to be the first step toward shutting the two homes.

"It looks to me like somebody's trying to phase out the nursing and sheltered-care homes. If that's the case, then you've got a real problem," said Stille, an Edwardsville Democrat and chairman of the Health Institutions Committee, which oversees operations at both facilities.

Charleston, the first to raise a question about the Finance Committee recommendation, said the committee proposal represented a disturbing change in the County Board's philosophy toward funding of the two homes.

"I don't like what's being proposed here. I think the general fund should continue to subsidize the nursing and sheltered-care homes," said Charleston, D-Alton.

Finance Committee Chairman Bill Little, however, said the recommendation to cut off subsidies to the homes was nothing more than an effort to clean up county accounting procedures.

The controversy erupted Wednesday night during an informal meeting of the County Board to discuss the 1993 budget proposal. The board took no action Wednesday.

Both the nursing and sheltered-care homes are supported by a combination of property tax revenue, fees and grants. But officials predict those revenue sources will soon be inadequate to meet day-to-day operating costs at the facilities.

Without the general revenue subsidies, repairs and equipment purchases at the homes would have to come out of their day-to-day operating budgets, further stretching the facilities' already tight dollars.

In past years, the homes have relied on general-fund subsidies to finance repairs and other work.

Administrators at the 67-year-old nursing home requested about $25,000 to pay for boiler and laundry tank repairs and other work; sheltered-care home officials asked for $16,775 for miscellaneous building repairs. The sheltered-care home will turn 100 next year.

The Finance Committee recommended rejecting those requests in committee meetings and they were left out of the proposed budget under discussion Wednesday.

Stille said after the meeting that the county may have spent at least $20,000 last year in general-fund money to make repairs at the homes, but he was not certain.

He said the move to make the homes operate without general-fund money is a result of input from at least one Finance Committee member, who Stille said wants the county to close the homes. He would not name the member.

Utility costs at both facilities are skyrocketing because they were built before the advent of insulation, Stille has said.

County Administrator Jim Monday reminded board members that the county would still be responsible for any emergency situations that might develop at the homes during the coming fiscal year.

"If the roof blows off the nursing home tomorrow, God forbid, Madison County would still be responsible for fixing that roof," Monday said.

Monday also reminded the board a decision must be made soon over what to do with the facilities in the long run.

A pair of task forces appointed almost two years ago to deal with the question has yet to meet but Monday has indicated the task forces could begin meetings some time after the beginning of the new fiscal year Dec. 1.

Little has suggested asking voters this spring to approve a tax hike or bond issue to finance renovations and new construction at the facilities.

A referendum would be necessary to increase the tax rates dedicated to each home, since both are now at their legal limit of 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation and cannot be raised without a public vote.

Koppie expects Perot to carry him

By Peggy O'Farrell
Staff writer

Independent Chad Koppie said he might be able to ride Ross Perot's coattails all the way to the U.S. Senate.

Koppie, who flew into Cahokia Thursday morning, was this week endorsed by the Illinois Perot campaign in his bid for the senate. He faces Democrat Carol Mosley Braun and Republican Rich Williamson.

"We'd like to believe that if the Perot folks are behind the Koppie campaign, it's going to help tremendously," Koppie said.

He pointed out the polls show the Texas billionaire gaining support. "Naturally we're not going to think we could tie into those numbers," Koppie said.

He added, however, that with the nod from the Illinois campaign organization, "I should think we should be able to coast along to a large degree."

Koppie said he thinks he has a good chance to win the race.

"That 21 percent undecided vote out there, I'll get a lot of that," he said.

"If the Perot people come out and do the support I think they're going to do, we will win this election," Koppie said.

Koppie flew into Parks Airport in Cahokia as part of a last-minute blitz that will include

"Looking at the gravity of the situation, trying to put a black woman in the U.S. Senate just because she's a black woman is kind of dangerous."

— Chad Koppie
during visit to area

"infomercials" and campaign stops around the state.

He said he will have sunk more than $200,000 of his own money into the campaign by the time the election is over.

"That's a lot of money to support a belief," he said.

It took a lawsuit to get Koppie's name on the ballot, and he said he has been slighted by the media in favor of the major party candidates.

"If I can't get ink and TV and I can't afford to buy it, I can't get out there," he said.

Koppie called the Democratic party's Senate campaign "a style show. Looking at the gravity of the situation, trying to put a black woman in the U.S. Senate just because she's a black woman is kind of dangerous."

Koppie said he won the endorsement "because I'm an independent like they are, and I subscribe to basically everything Perot says."

Voters might consider their stances on abortion one major difference. Koppie is anti-abortion, whereas Perot has said he is pro-choice.

Koppie said, though, that abortion "is not a primary issue" in the campaign.

"I'm certainly not a single-issue candidate." He said he would in turn endorse Perot, with the abortion issue as "the only caveat."

"We've simply got to deal with the economy, with the job situation, term limits and all of that, right down the line," he said.

"The nation is not in good shape and I think that what Mr. Perot and myself are espousing is the need."

Koppie said he favors a strong defense, calling for continuing the Star Wars program and going ahead with the construction of the C-17.

"Our enemies are still out there. The Soviet Union's legacy lives on in the 30,000 nuclear devices that are still out there," he said.

"It's more dangerous today than it ever was by virtue of the fact that all of the equipment is still out there and there are 15 nations out there that have ICBM capabilities."

Victim rights proposal is praised

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

In a criminal trial, the prosecutor represents the people of Illinois. The defense attorney represents the accused person.

"But who represents the victim?" asks Mala Weber of Parents of Murdered Children.

"Who explains the horror and pain the crime caused to the victim and the victim's family?"

Weber and her organization will join members of other victims' right organizations and members of the law enforcement community at noon today (Sunday) for a rally at the St. Clair County Courthouse. The rally is designed to show support for the Victims' Rights Amendment on Tuesday's ballot.

Illinois Attorney General Roland Burris is pushing the amendment, which, if passed Tuesday, will add a section to the state Constitution granting a number of basic rights to crime victims.

The amendment would help ensure a victim's right to be kept up to date on the status of a criminal case or the escape or release of a felon; to timely disposition of cases; to attend trials and other court proceedings; and to make an impact statement at sentencing.

And while the amendment does not provide penalties if the victim's rights are violated, it should force officials to make a conscious effort to protect victims, authorities said.

How important is it to have a formal bill of rights for victims."

"It's very important. A person who is a victim has been violated. It's not their fault. A victim should have at least the same rights as the accused," said Granite City Police Chief Don Knight.

"I personally think victims should have a lot more rights than the accused."

Knight, who has been a police officer for more than 22 years, said the victim assistance program in Madison County grew out of successful rape assistance programs.

"He said law enforcement officials discovered that, when a victim was kept notified about his or her case, the victim made a better witness and that a cooperative effort with the victim made for a better case."

"Dealing with a lot of cases and a lot of people, I have sometimes gotten out of focus and temporarily forgotten there is a victim to consider," Knight said.

"When a crime is committed, someone has been violated. Sometimes the victim isn't considered in enough light and police officers need to be reminded."

"So I say, let's make it the law. Let's make sure victims are given their rights, at least the same rights as the accused, if not more."

In 1990, more than 112,000 violent crimes were committed in Illinois, according to Bonnie Yaeger, director of the Alton Police Department's victims' assistance program.

"Crime statistics are climbing," Yaeger said. "Anyone may find themselves a victim that's exactly why this amendment is so important. It can help everyone and hurt absolutely no one."

Passing the amendment will send a message that victims should be treated to equal rights just like suspects, Yaeger said.

The amendment may also encourage victims to cooperate with police and prosecutors, she said.

ELECT HARMON Circuit Clerk in Madison County

"The common use of this patronage system by the Democratic machine equates to 14 positions or $272,860 the citizens are being soaked for."

Unions — On Melucci

Jim Goodall, president of a union local that represents about 400 county employees, said Costello and Madison County Board Chairman Nelson "Nellie" Hagnauer teamed up to get the committee's endorsement for Melucci. Goodall said many union locals do not support Melucci.

John Green, president of a 4,000-member Alton area Teamsters local, agreed with Goodall that Costello and Hagnauer played a role in the committee's endorsement of Melucci.

Green said Executive Services has a reputation of playing hardball with unions.

"We'll take a professional union negotiator any day. But all they want to do is tear up the contract," Green said.

Don Bridick — On Melucci's Endorsement

"People should be allowed to vote their consciences, without pressures being applied," he said. "They have jobs and families to protect."

Change? It's Your Choice

Offices Held by Democrats

Offices Held by Republicans

Republican Lonnie Harmon said his comparison between the staff and workloads in the circuit clerk's offices in Madison and Sangamon counties led him to conclude that Madison County handled 28 percent more cases but had 56 percent more full-time employees. He said that was an extra 14 workers whose average pay would total $272,860 a year.

He blamed a patronage system that hired relatives and friends of officials and other employees. He said it was controlled by the Democratic Party and would not be changed by its candidate for circuit clerk, Matt Melucci.

Harmon contended that Democratic "power brokers" and unions had pushed Melucci's nomination through the party and that Melucci was beholden to the forces that want to retain patronage jobs.

Voters fed up with corrupted governmental system

By Tracy Litsey,
executive director,
Common Cause, Illinois

It's easy to understand the "term limits" movement. In brief, voters are fed up with a corrupted system of government. They tire of politicians using public office to garner personal wealth or special privileges. They tire of watching special interest money dominate legislatures, leaving citizens feeling politically impotent and used. They're angry at a political system in which a wall of special interest money makes incumbents virtually unbeat-able. Term limits is a cry of profound frustration with unresponsive government. Yet, what people want is simple: a government not for sale, more responsive to public needs than special interests, giving voters a real choice at the ballot box. In Illinois, reforms aimed at cleaning up state politics are introduced in the General Assembly year after year. These proposals include sweeping ethics, campaign and lobby law reforms to limit special-interest campaign money, and to increase government honesty and accountability. Rather than bite the special-interest hand that feeds them, legislators regularly scuttle these ethics proposals. Ethics bills disappear in "graveyard" committees, or fall victim to clever parliamentary maneuvering. Certainly, no solid ethics or campaign finance reform bill has made it to a full vote in both houses of the Illinois General Assembly in many years. The politicians spout a variety of excuses to explain their inaction: public frustration grows at the continuing scandal that is Illinois politics. It seems easier to "throw the bums out" than hope the "bums" will take it upon themselves to pass serious ethics legislation. Term limits will prevent politicians from becoming entrenched in office. Term limits will not stop lobbyists from buying influence, not will we choose to enact term limits for Illinois in the future, voters must demand ethics legislation and campaign finance reform concurrently. Illinois Common Cause remains neutral on the issue of term limits at this time, choosing instead to work for solid and specific government ethics laws. However, perhaps the growing demand for term limits is a good option for us all to keep in mind if Springfield legislators continue to stall ethics, lobbying and campaign fund reform.

Favors repairing existing swim pool at a reduced cost

TO THE EDITOR:
For voters to be able to make an informed decision on the Granite City Park Board's bond issue Tuesday, it is important that they obtain both sides on the subject.

Nancy Sanders-Miles, president of the Park Board, ably presented her point of view in a lengthy letter published Thursday.

I would like to present some opposing views on the matter from my perspective as a retired registered professional engineer and as an active conservationist and civic-minded, cost-conscious citizen.

First, Mrs. Sanders-Miles refers to "recurring structural" problems.

From the perspective of a school teacher, she may feel that the problem with respect to the pool tank is a structural problem.

However, from the engineering point of view, a structural problem indicates a dangerous defect demanding immediate attention; for example, a growing crack in a bridge truss or a crack in the main spar of an airplane wing.

On the other hand, a deteriorating bridge deck or a skin crack in the fuselage does not condemn the respective structure to the scrap pile. With respect to the existing Wilson Park pool, the defects she cited are superficial.

Even structural cracks in concrete can be expertly repaired. There is no question that the pool can be brought back to top-notch condition, in stages over two or three years, without a bond issue or a tax increase.

She refers to the study made last spring by a consulting engineer engaged by the board. This consultant, I would point out, was the same one engaged to evaluate the existing pool in 1984.

At that time, he was also engaged to design the new pool submitted to the voters in that year.

His estimate for rehabilitation of the existing pool in 1984 was more than $800,000 or about $1.2 million in today's dollars. This is more than twice as much as Hastings and Chivetta, the new consultants, have estimated for renovation.

It raises a question about why the board engaged its 1984 consultant again, since his recommendations were already known. It would have been more prudent public policy to engage a consulting firm like Sverdrup or Horner & Shiffin to evaluate the pool's structural condition without relating the contract to a new design.

Engineers love new design. Renovation is a chore.

There are, indeed, solid points of agreement between myself and the board's consultant. First, we agree that there is no structural danger at this time and, second, that there are patches over patches that have been applied over many years. However, these patches are only on the gutters and coping and are not on the structural walls or floor.

I maintain that the gutters and coping can be easily replaced at modest cost. The board's consultant, however, thinks that the entire pool must therefore be replaced.

I am confident that an independent firm, completely divorced from a potential design contract would find the existing pool structure to be structurally sound.

As for sandblasting and repainting, I agree they are definitely needed. But, again, such costs are quite modest.

I would also agree that the so-called "improperly functioning recirculating" system needs to be studied with respect to long-term improvement.

But it is not a critical item for reopening the pool and can be relegated to a second phase. The same can be said of the filtering system.

With respect to loss of water through the floor, we appear to have a paradox. When the pool was new, it was caulked with old-fashioned asphalt.

Today, with the greatly improved caulking materials that are available, leaks seem to be frequent.

Perhaps the problem lies in technique. Engaging an outside contractor specializing in this field should readily bring the caulking up to date.

I would like to add that I am not opposed to all improvements in the park system.

The new fitness trail is a welcome and long-needed facility for which the Park Board deserves credit.

I would strongly support the acquisition of more park land. I would strongly support improved drainage in Wilson Park and improved grading of some of the ball diamonds.

On the other hand, I strongly oppose wasting taxpayers' money on an aquatic center when the existing pool structure is basically sound and capable of being restored to first-class condition at a cost of about one-tenth that of the proposed aquatic center.

The work can be done in stages and the pool can be open for Memorial Day next spring. A new pool would not likely be open before 1994.

"What would you suggest to increase voter registration and voter turnout?"

By T.W. MILLER

Diane Simon, Granite City
"I think it is each person's responsibility and I don't think there is anything we can do to make them vote."

Vickie Blakey, Madison
"If they want a better president, they should get up and get out and vote."

Lorene Wilkens, Granite City
"I took the voter registration article out of the paper and gave it to my grandkids; that's a start. I've been voting since I was 21. I'm 74 now."

Tenna C. Ruch, Granite City
"Get someone worth voting for. They need to quit working on roads and start working on education."

Lois King, Granite City
"They used to set up tables at grocery stores. I haven't seen that for many years. That may help if people could register in the grocery store."

Park district planning Shelbyville trip

The Granite City Park District's last one-day trip of 1992 will be made on Thursday, Dec. 10, to the Shelbyville area. Registration will be held Tuesday, Nov. 10.

The trip will begin at the Wilson Park Ice Rink and have a quick lunch stop on the way. A tour guide will be picked up in Shelbyville at 1:15 p.m. and the group will proceed to the Pfeiffer Christmas tree farm, where participants can learn everything about Christmas trees, wreaths and greenery. Gift items may be purchased there and shipped.

It's then back to Shelbyville for a driving tour of the historic and turn-of-the-century homes and buildings.

Stops will be made at the Prairie Winds Emporium on the Square, where visitors will be met by the aroma of potpourri and freshly ground coffee; the Wooden Nickel Antiques; Floral Boutique; and Strohl's Limited Editions.

Next, a drive will begin through the Shelbyville portion of the Starflake Trail Tour of Lights. The trail goes through Friday before reaching a Festival of Lights, located in Eagle Creek State Park; it is the largest outdoor-lighting display in the United States.

At the Inn at Eagle Creek Resort, a buffet meal will be enjoyed at 5:30 p.m.

After dinner, the Festival of Lights will be viewed before continuing on the Starflake Trail to Sullivan and Windsor, Ill., to complete the trail.

As a grand finale of Christmas lighting displays, a drive will be made through Altamont before heading for home.

The cost of the trip will be $26.50 per person; this includes the bus fare, the meal at the Inn at Eagle Creek and the tour of the Festival of Lights.

Residents of the Park District will have priority in signing up, with non-residents placed on a waiting list. One person can sign for no more than two people with proof of residence.

Arts, crafts show coming Nov. 7-8

The Maryville Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary will hold an arts and crafts show Nov. 7 and 8 at the Maryville Senior Citizens Center. The hours will be 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. There will be crafts, baked goods and food items for sale.

Proceeds from the fair, table rental and food sales will go to a fund that is being established to help cover the cost of purchasing a new ambulance.

For more information, persons may call Susie Vandersloot at 345-7299.

Volunteer fair Wednesday

The Information and Volunteer Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in SIUE's University Center will host a volunteer fair from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 4, in the Goshen Lounge.

The fair is an opportunity for students to become acquainted with volunteer activities for local and regional organizations. For information call 692-2739.

Retention vote on judges important

Voters Tuesday should be careful not to overlook one of the most important decisions they are asked to make—whether incumbent state judges should be retained for another term in office.

A significant number of voters in each election fail to cast in retention elections, according to the Illinois State Bar Association, and it is urging voters to become informed about the candidates and exercise their right to decide.

The non-partisan retention question is one of the last options on the ballot and this may be the reason retention voting is so low. In order to be retained, a judge must receive at least 60 percent "yes" vote from those who vote on the question.

Voters who choose to vote a straight party ballot should be aware that they must separately vote on retention. If the retention ballot is left blank, it is not counted.

"The vast majority of judges in Illinois are dedicated, hard-working, and knowledgeable public servants," says Peter H. Lousberg, president of the State Bar. "With few exceptions, sitting judges represent an investment by the public—an investment in their training and experience."

Local girl on on Bronze Tablet

A Granite City girl is among 190 whose name will appear on the newest Bronze Tablet being placed in the University of Illinois Library this fall.

They are the University Honors students, the top 3 percent from each U of I college's 1992 graduating class, selected for their outstanding academic performance during the course of their college careers.

Among the University Honors winners are Eric Scott Engler of Belleville, Michelle Ann Siers of Granite City and Scott Matthew Bennett of Mascoutah.

University Honors and inclusion on the Bronze Tablet are the university's highest honors for graduating students. Winners must have a total grade-point average of at least 4.5, out of a possible 5, although in recent years an average as high as 4.9 was needed to make the list in some colleges, said Robert Underwood, assistant director of admissions and records.

The first Bronze Tablet, bearing 14 names, appeared in 1925.

Clerk offices to return to courthouse

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Madison County Circuit Clerk offices, temporarily housed in county annex buildings, should be back in the courthouse by the end of next month.

"It should be substantially complete by next week," said Marty Sigloch of the current renovation of the courthouse in Edwardsville.

Following cleanup and a final inspection, the offices will be moving back into their remodeled surroundings by the end of November, said Sigloch, the county's building and land administrator. The move will be an entire month ahead of schedule.

The remodeling, which was funded through part of the $17 million in bonds used to build the new administration building adjacent to the courthouse, began this summer.

Officials originally anticipated that it would be completed in either December or January. Only the felony division has been conducting business in the courthouse during the remodeling.

Family, traffic and civil cases have been handled in the county's annex buildings.

Last week, the County Board agreed to seek bids from movers and for furnishings for the remodeled building.

Sigloch said the furnishings are needed primarily for the building's new courtrooms.

What was formerly the main office of County Clerk Evelyn Bowles on the second floor of the courthouse has been converted into two courtrooms, while Bowles' first-floor office space is now a courtroom for the traffic division. Bowles' offices moved to the new county administration building over the summer.

Sigloch said the former County Board room in the basement of the courthouse will also get a facelift.

"That's going to be done as a new project," Sigloch said. "There's no contract on that job we had to get this other stuff done first."

Once remodeled, the meeting room is to be a law library, Sigloch said.

With the remodeling complete, all county offices will be housed in either the administration building or the courthouse.

Work on both the courthouse and the administration building was done by Korte-Blocher Construction Co. of Highland.

Average worker's pay declines in Illinois

The average annual pay of Illinois workers, adjusted for inflation, has dropped about $1,000 in the last four years, according to a new study.

The Illinois Public Action Council, a coalition of consumer and labor groups, said its analysis of U.S. Department of Labor statistics found paychecks have not kept pace with the cost of living since 1988.

The report also said the Illinois economy has been steadily shifting to lower-paying jobs.

It said real earnings, average annual pay adjusted for inflation, for all workers dropped from $27,189 in 1988 to $26,181 in 1991, or a $1,008 cut.

The declines were even greater in such traditionally higher-paying occupations in transportation, manufacturing and construction, the study says.

Transportation workers lost $2,765 in real earnings from $35,033 to $32,268 adjusted for inflation, manufacturing workers from $33,277 to $31,668, a $1,609 drop, and construction workers, from $34,974 to $33,066, a $1,908 drop.

Only government workers stayed virtually even when inflation was taken into account, earning $27,127 in 1988 compared with $27,079, according to the report.

The study also found an almost 50 percent increase in unemployment statewide, particularly in the highest paying jobs. Illinois unemployment stood at 8 percent, according to the most recent figures available.

"During the last four years, we have seen a continuous shift from high-paying jobs to lower paying employment throughout the state," said Public Action Council Executive Director Robert Creamer.

"If this trend continues, we will be undermining not only our current standard of living but the ability of future generations to pay for education, health care and the other benefits a well-paid work force makes possible."

bie. Creamer added.

He said the study showed the need to concentrate on getting back more highly skilled and high-wage jobs in the state.

The only job sector with increases in Illinois in the period was the service area.

However, service jobs also had the lowest pay levels, with an average of $24,095 in 1988, and an inflation-adjusted average of $24,047 in 1991.

Coroner staff costs an issue in campaign

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

The size of the staff and the budget in the Madison County coroner's office are big issues in Tuesday's election.

Challenger Larry Naylor says that Coroner Dallas M. Burke, a 20-year incumbent, has too large a budget and too large a staff.

Naylor said the coroner, not her investigators, should be making the calls.

"The coroner is not making most of the calls as she should be doing," Republican Naylor said. "If I'm elected coroner, I would be a full-time coroner."

But Democrat Burke, of Alton, said that in her 20 years in office she has responded to "hundreds of accidents, suicides and murders at all hours of the day and night, in all kinds of weather."

Burke, 65, is also the night and weekend contact for her office for emergency-service providers and police.

The office conducts 1,500 investigations each year, she said. Naylor, 42, a remittance agent and notary public from Bethalto, said he would also eliminate the use of ambulance services to transport bodies.

"The coroner should pick up that body," Naylor said. "This bit of sending a professional ambulance service out is ridiculous."

"That is $4,000 in the budget that could be used to try and obtain a county morgue."

While she budgets $4,000 for those costs, Burke said the actual cost is less than $2,000 each year. The unused money returns to the county's general fund. Burke estimates that to buy and equip a hearse would cost about $20,000. And one vehicle wouldn't do much good in multi-vehicle accidents or with simultaneous calls, she added.

"For all practical purposes, two removal vehicles would need to be purchased for a county this size and with the volume of calls investigated," Burke said.

One issue the candidates agree on is the need for a county morgue.

Naylor said that Burke has had 20 years to establish one and, with sufficient cuts in her "outrageous" budget, a morgue could be had. Burke disagreed.

"I continue to work on establishing a county morgue but there are not sufficient funds to do so at this time," Burke said. "Until there are, the county board's finance and buildings committees will not give the go-ahead on that project."

Despite Burke's tenure, Naylor said that he is the more qualified candidate.

A licensed funeral director and embalmer for 16 years, Naylor has been active in the work part-time during the past few years. A certified military mortuary inspector, Naylor was responsible for the collection of casualties from Operation Desert Storm at Dover Air Base in Delaware.

"I have the experience and training for mass disasters," Naylor said.

Burke, a member of the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency and the Illinois Funeral Directors Association, has received disaster and mass casualty management training through both those agencies.

Burke also has developed a disaster plan for her office.

Seven firemen die on duty

The deaths of two Alton firefighters Saturday brought to seven the number of firemen who have died on duty in Illinois this year, more than twice the 1991 toll.

"It's a very hazardous job. There are dangers on every alarm regardless of what the duty might be," said State Fire Marshal Thomas Armstead Monday.

Last year, three firefighters died while on duty, according to records kept by Armstead's office. This year's total is the highest statewide in at least five years. There were two in 1990, five in 1989, two in 1988 and five in 1987. Nationally, 105 firefighters died on duty last year.

Although multiple deaths of firefighters at the scene of a blaze are rare, Armstead said in his nearly 30-year career as a Springfield firefighter, he has personally witnessed two fires in which more than one colleague died when a building collapsed. Capt. Gary Porter, 38, and probationary firefighter Tim Lewis, 29, of Engine Co. 73 were the first firefighters to die in the line of duty in the 11-year history of the Alton Fire Department. In July, a 43-year-old firefighter in Oak Park, an older Chicago suburb, became the first firefighter in the more than 100-year history of his department to die on the scene fighting a blaze. The other four deaths statewide of on-duty firefighters this year were all the result of heart attacks.

County officials to be honored

By Lisa Fill
Staff writer

Two Madison County officials will receive awards in November for their assistance to the Freedom Flyers Ministry.

Madison County Sheriff Bob Church and Eddie Newsome, superintendent of the Madison County Jail, will receive the awards at a banquet on Nov. 14 at Randy's Restaurant in Troy. Chaplain Walter Shankle, director of the Southern States Division of the program, said he chose Church and Newsome for the appreciation awards because of their assistance with the program in their jail.

"The program is a big help,"

Newsome said. "The literacy program is excellent. They are doing a good job."

At the banquet, several former prison inmates will give five-minute testimonials on how the Freedom Flyers Ministry has affected their lives.

Also receiving an appreciation award will be Anthony Scilla, warden of Taylorville Correctional Facility in Taylorville.

A Freedom Flyer staff award will also be given to Chaplain Bob Blaine for his dedication to the program. "He has never missed a single Saturday in assisting me preaching," Shankle said.

Anyone interested in attending the banquet should call Shankle at 235-6832. Tickets are $12.

1,400 expected to attend conference for Catholics

An eclectic mix of theologians, musicians, educators and entertainers are on the schedule for the biennial Diocesan Adult Education Conference at the Prairie Capital Convention Center in Springfield on Nov. 1 and 2. More than 1,400 Catholics from the 28 counties of the Diocese of Springfield, Ill., are expected to attend the event. It is sponsored by the diocesan Catholic Education and Worship offices.

Madeline Manning Mims, an Olympic Gold medalist, and the Rev. Frank McNulty, who represented the U.S. priests to Pope John Paul II during his last visit to this country, will headline the conference, titled "Beatitudes: Being and Becoming."

Mims won a gold medal at 800 meters in 1968, setting a new world record for the event. She attended the recent Olympic games in Barcelona as a chaplain to the athletes. Mims is also an accomplished Christian recording artist. She is scheduled to give the keynote presentation Sunday, Nov. 1.

McNulty, a priest of the Archdiocese of Newark, is the author of books and articles on Christian spirituality, homeletics and religious education. He will give the keynote address Monday, Nov. 2, and will offer a special session for priests only.

Musicians for the conference are Rory Cooney, Gary Daigle and Theresa Donohoo. They will be assisted by a mime, music and dance troupe from Cincinnati called The Fountain Square Fools.

The musicians and the mimes will present a concert Sunday evening and take part in morning prayer and Mass.

Workshops for the two-day conference include sessions on spirituality, single-parenting, media education for children and families, and religious education.

Registration for the entire conference is $40. For either Sunday or Monday, the fee is $25.

Madison County Arts Council kids' art workshops scheduled

What is art? More to the point, what are the "Kids and Art Workshops?"

They are a series of monthly workshops for children 6 to 9 years old, held after school from November through May.

The classes are organized and coordinated as part of the Madison County Arts Council's educational programs.

Kids and Art Workshops teach the basic values of art to children and introduce them, under the guidance of a local guest artist, to new materials, new techniques and new areas of the arts.

Madison Mutual Insurance Company and Clark Oil Company, among others, are sponsors that have made possible the expansion of the program to add two libraries to the existing nine. Area participating libraries include:

Granite City Public Library, 876-5127, second Thursday of the month.

Tri-Township Public Library, Troy, 667-2133, first Tuesday of the month.

Collinsville Memorial Public Library, 344-1112, first

Thursday of the month.

Edwardsville Public Library, 692-7545, second Wednesday of the month.

The workshops will be featuring a variety of artists and art projects. The featured artist, project and the month scheduled are listed below.

November 1992 - Expressive Charcoals, John Bybee.

December - Clay, Ornaments and Imaginary Worlds, Naomi Elgner.

January 1993 - Sketching with Markers, Katherine Naborski.

February - Medieval Times and Rhymes, Mark and Christine Newcombe.

March - Swedish Dance and Movements, Sonja Edem.

April - Adventures in Cartooning, Brian Miller.

May 1993 - Modern Dance Movements, Casey Altom.

The fee is $10 per child for one session of seven classes. Class size is limited. All materials for the class will be furnished.

Families may contact their local librarian to register for the workshops.

HEEL PAIN?

If you are suffering from pain located at the bottom of the heel, you may have plantar fasciitis. Plantar fasciitis refers to inflammation of a ligament that attaches to the heel bone and fans out into the toes. The inflammation may be due to a variety of etiologies, almost all of which can be resolved through conservative treatments.

If you have been putting up with this discomfort, feel free to call the specialists at the Foot Health Centers.

- ★ A one meter diving board
- ★ A six lane 25 meter area for lap swimming
- ★ Low level corkscrew slide
- ★ Zero depth entry for ease of entering water

- ★ Outdoor eating area
- ★ Convenient parking and dropoff area

NEW POOL FACTS

1. NEW POOL OR REHAB OLD POOL—

Engineers with expertise in pool construction and rehabilitation evaluated the old pool and filtering systems.

Conclusion: —No guarantee that temporary repair could meet state health and safety standards.

—Rehabilitation would cost approximately $1 million.

—An up-to-date, but sensible modern pool could be built for about $1.8 million financed over a ten year period.

The Park District's current taxing powers preclude taking the cost of rehabilitation from existing revenues. Therefore, passage of the bond issue is necessary.

2. COST TO PROPERTY OWNERS—

—The average residential property owner will pay $1.25 per month.

—We will see our tax dollars benefitting our community and children.

Aren't our kids worth $1.25?

3. FEES FOR THE NEW POOL—

Park District "Resident" Fees will continue as follows:

Children (thru grade 12) ..... $1.00
Adult ..... $1.50
Senior Citizens (55 or older) ..... $1.00

*Non-Resident" Fees will be substantially increased. Our New Pool is primarily intended for Park District residents.

4. NOT AN "AQUATIC CENTER"—

A sensible new modern pool designed in keeping with the times to serve residents of all ages and physical capabilities, about 700 sq. ft. larger than the old pool, but a newer more versatile design.

It is NOT designed as a tourist attraction to be supported by non-resident users.

5. OUTDOOR OR INDOOR POOL—

Indoor pool would cost about $4 million compared to $1.8 million for an outdoor pool and would have substantial operating costs; and, generally indoor pools do not produce sufficient revenues to cover costs. No interest by any private or public organization has been evidenced to share the cost for an enclosed pool.

Garrett collected $146 for travel costs in September, about 94% of which was for the bogus Legislative Committee meetings.

Records show the committee has met only five times since December 1991.

Garrett conceded he signed the Legislative Committee book nine times in September even though there were no meetings.

"I go to Edwardsville quite a bit for various reasons and what I do is I simply sign the Legislative Committee book. It doesn't do it for me," he said.

Monday stressed that the books are designed to record official trips and not attendance at meetings. He said that policy may "need to be looked at" in using the books to record trips of official business that do not involve meetings.

Local Democratic voters have also been known to vote a split ticket, and in 1988, Bush carried Robertson's precinct.

to Edwardsville. County records that would show any previous mileage payments to Garrett were not available. It was unclear whether Garrett can be forced to repay the money.

In addition to the Legislative Committee, Garrett is a member of the Land Use, Animal Health and Sewer committees.

In response to an inquiry, County Auditor Fred Bathon pledged to investigate the matter.

Garrett collected about $10 for each trip to the county seat in September.

Aside from the nine Legislative Committee meetings, Garrett was reimbursed for three Land Use Committee meetings and two Animal Health Committee meetings, records showed.

Only Buildings Committee Chairman Herbert "Junior" Milton collected more mileage money than Garrett during the month, primarily because the Buildings Committee meets five days a week.

Milton, who lives in Granite City, collected $189 in September for 20 Buildings Committee meetings and one Personnel Committee meeting.

Insurance can protect your income

Money Matters articles focus on the basic principles of comprehensive financial planning. Granite City resident Brian Mulhall, the author, is a partner with a St. Louis-based financial service company. Those who have questions for Mulhall to address may write to: Money Matters, Granite City Press-Record/Journal, 1815 Delmar, Granite City, IL 62040.

Any well-ordered financial plan should begin with protection of income.

There are many uses for life insurance, but it is commonly used to replace lost income of a spouse or parent in the event of premature death.

How much life insurance is enough? Since each person's situation is different, I personally do not believe in a "rule of thumb" when it comes to purchasing life insurance, such as, an individual should have at least five times annual income to protect the family.

How does an individual know if the family needs more or less than five times annual income? The most accurate way to calculate this need is to figure a dependent's income needs and to buy enough coverage to meet those needs.

For example, Mr. and Mrs. Gray have two children, age three and five. In case of Mr. Gray's death, he wished to provide 75 percent of his income to the family until the youngest child graduates from high school. Then, he wanted to provide for the cost of college education at an in-state university.

These wishes add up to $500,000 and, at first glance, it appears to be a large and costly insurance need. However, do not forget about the power of compound interest.

The interest earned on a life insurance settlement will solve a large portion of the Grays' insurance need.

Assume 75 percent of Mr. Gray's income is $25,000 a year. This is the payment he wants for the household.

Brian Mulhall

Mrs. Gray will invest the money in long-term growth funds that will average 12 percent over 15 years. (The historical 10-year average of the stock market is 12 percent.)

Their financial planner then calculates that Mr. Gray will need a policy for $282,000 to provide for his family in the event of his death.

In other words, if you deposit $282,000 today, Mrs. Gray can take out $25,000 per year for 15 years and then fund an in-state college education for the children.

This need originally added up to $500,000 in pure numbers. Using investment interest, the Grays have now tailored a program to fit their need and budget.

There are three sources of life insurance: 1) individually purchased, 2) employer provided, and 3) government-sponsored. This article will address the basic types of individually purchased life insurance.

Term life insurance is protection during a specified period of time. It pays a death benefit only if the insured dies within the protection period.

At the end of the policy period, the protection ceases. Term insurance is pure protection; it does not develop cash value, and there is no saving element.

Whole life insurance is the basic type of lifetime policy. It provides insurance protection at a level premium for the entire lifetime of the insured.

Whole life insurance also has the ability to accumulate a cash value over a period of years utilizing an interest rate paid by the insurance company. From the premium paid, the insurance company deducts certain expenses and the cost of the term insurance protection. The balance then is deposited into a cash-value fund (usually high-yielding government securities) that begins earning interest immediately.

The premium paid is also flexible. With variable life insurance, the amount of premium is fixed, but the face amount of the policy varies over time with the performance of a fund invested in equities or some other instrument. The cash value is not guaranteed and fluctuates with the performance of the investment funds.

The newest contract in life insurance is called variable universal life insurance. This type of life insurance combines the features of universal and variable life into one contract. After expenses and insurance costs are deducted from the premium, the balance is deposited in investments ranging from a fixed-interest account to growth-oriented mutual funds.

The contracts have become popular for parents wanting to save toward college education or those accumulating funds for retirement.

Providence buys Reese Pharmacy

Continuing its mission of serving business and industry in this area, Providence Occupational Health Services has purchased Reese Medical Arts Pharmacy.

On Oct. 1, the pharmacy, located on the ground floor of the Wolf Medical Building, 2044 Madison Ave., became Providence Pharmacy, the seventh division of POHS' services.

"The purchase of Reese's is consistent with our mission," said Ginny Lepping, executive vice president of Providence. "Our primary focus is to provide services to business and industry in this area and to generate a net income for St. Elizabeth Health Services."

"This acquisition is primarily a transfer of ownership," Lepping said. "The location of the pharmacy will stay the same, as will the staff."

30:33 in the second half when O'Fallon's Mike Dietz was rewarded for taking down Brian Kohler hard on a breakaway. It might have saved a goal, but it cost O'Fallon a player for the rest of the game.

Kohler capitalized two minutes later, and the score remained 2-1 despite several "close" scoring chances for both teams the rest of the way.

"I was proud of the way our kids played," Voellinger said. "We got a bad break when Dietz got thrown out."

Voellinger was not the only one questioning the officiating. Both he and Baker made several comments afterward about the way the game was called.

The Panthers nearly scored late in the game on a goalmouth scramble. But Granite City goalkeeper David Kasproch, who came in for Cooper after halftime, survived the pressure.

"We really dominated even though every call went against us in the final three minutes," Baker said. "There was no rhyme or reason."

Granite City moved to 13-4-5 on the year, while O'Fallon ended play at 16-6-1. Voellinger's teams have matched up well against some of the area's best teams during playoff competition. The Panthers were invited to compete in the Tournament of Champions this season and managed a scoreless tie against CBC.

Last year, O'Fallon lost a 1-0 squeaker to Collinsville in sectional play. Collinsville went on to win state. Voellinger seemed to be just as impressed with Thursday's effort.

"This O'Fallon team has had a great year," Voellinger said. "It will be a year to remember. This team has played tough against CBC, Rosary and Granite City."

Baker was pleased to see his team's comeback. The Warriors just missed a third goal on a free kick by J.B. Anderson at 9:30. The ball got past Black but was repelled by Matt Graham, who was standing behind Black in the net.

"J.B. had a big shot," Baker said. "We felt there was a hand ball on that play."

"I thought we played well," Clark and Kohler both had a great game. Ben Hicks was very stable. Kasproch came off the bench and gave us a lift, and Jason Maxfield was just the max factor. Our offense was a concern in the first half, but we got it together in the second half."

The game marked the return of Brent Dippel, who started and played in the first half. Dippel has been sidelined by a broken foot since last month. The senior standout played the first quarter and came off the field favoring his left foot with 22:07 left.

Baker said Dippel was leaning toward sitting out at least the Warriors' next game.

"It's tough to come back that quickly," Baker said.

Potato Classic golfers benefit needy

Amvets collect $4,000 in groceries for area families

Madison Amvets Post 294 continued its support for the area's needy families by recently donating proceeds from the seventh annual Potato Classic golf tournament.

The tournament, held last month at Oakbrook Golf Course in Edwardsville, attracted over 160 golfers. The event raised about $4,000 in groceries for three groups: the Phoenix Crisis Center for abused women and children, the Protestant Welfare Association and Catholic Charities.

The groceries were collected from the golfers, who were required to bring a box full of non-perishable food as a part of the entry fee. The tournament was a four-man scramble.

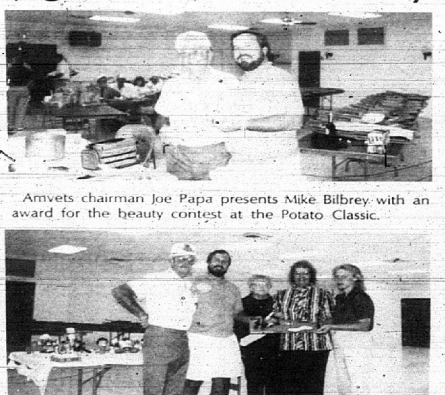

An assortment of prizes were handed out to the winning golf teams as well as the winners of the potato beauty contest. The grand prizes, for a hole in one, were $10,000 in cash and a 1992 Chevrolet, donated by John Novotny Chevrolet.

Other major awards were a trip to the Bahamas and Las Vegas and a contoured putting green.

The first-place trophies went to the team of John Lakin, Ron Dailey, Glen Booker and Bill Papa. The team of Alex Chen-hoffer, Fred Carver, Frank Schenhofer and Wayne Kelley won the last-place trophy. The potato contest, judged by three members from the Phoenix Crisis Center, was won by Mike Bilbrey.

The "Furthest Traveled" trophy went to Heidi Nelson, who traveled from Albuquerque, N.M., to be at the tournament. The "Octogenarian" trophy went to Arcolino Lombardi. The "Bimbo" award went to Terry Tessary, and Bill Ohlendorf won a seven-course dinner.

The Madison Amvets and chairman of the tournament, Joe Papa, have helped raise over $10,000 in groceries through the Potato Classic and other events over the past seven years. Papa said next year's eighth annual tournament will be held Sept. 12, 1993, and it will split into two divisions - the Russels and the Idahos.

Amvets chairman Joe Papa presents Mike Bilbrey with an award for the beauty contest at the Potato Classic.

DUV begins fall schedule

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War — Aunt Becky Young Tent 92 — resumed its fall schedule with a meeting Sept. 24.

Opening prayer and Pledge of Allegiance was led by Peggy Gibbons.

The business segment was conducted by Evelyn Ringering, roll call and reading of the records.

A thank you was read from Debra Goodman, the recipient of the Living Memorial Nurses Scholarship she will graduate in the spring.

A contribution was sent to the United Way.

Applications were received for three new members for DUV — Aunt Becky Young Tent 92 from Mary Stinson.

Louise Thompson read the treasurer's report.

TV/Radio review:

New day dawns Wednesday:
End of political commercials

Plan For The Day, Wednesday, Nov. 4, 1992: Get up cautiously. Peep outside. Oh, good, the world is still turning. Throw open the window and sniff the crisp autumn air. Now, listen carefully and you will hear the clean, sweet sound of no political commercials.

Ummm. Refreshing.

It would be nice to find, when all the damage is totaled, that the people who ran the sleaziest campaigns all lost. But the world isn't that fair.

Never, as I see it, anyway, have the airwaves been so fouled as in this campaign season. No, no, not by the presidential candidates. By the standard of recent campaigns, the commercials on behalf of the presidential candidates, stayed fairly close to issues and answers.

I'm referring to the commercials for people running for state offices and for the House and the Senate. Well, let me correct that. Those commercials were not for anyone. They were against the other guy. And often about matters that really weren't even germane.

So much sleaze and innuendo, so much irrelevance and irresponsibility. It would be nice to find, when all the damage is totaled, that the people who ran the sleaziest campaigns all lost. But the world isn't that fair.

Meanwhile, don't blame the television and radio stations. As most of you probably know, stations are not allowed to refuse access to politicians running for federal office, and they usually cannot even limit the times the politicians can buy. And as a matter of practice and philosophy, of course, they don't refuse access to any candidates.

The stations also have to provide politicians time at their lowest rates. Thus, the stations often have to displace long-time loyal advertisers in choice times—frequently at bargain-basement rates. That makes the regular advertisers unhappy and damages long-term relationships. Of course, the advertising can be a short-term bonanza for some stations. Nevertheless, as usual in a business which is highly regulated, the people guaranteed to make the most from the situation are those responsible for interpreting the regulations. Irony, isn't it?

Ian MacBryde

Closed-Captioning
KSDK-TV (Channel 5) has installed a system to provide closed-captioning for the hearing impaired on its regularly scheduled newscasts. The station was to provide closed-captioning of its election night coverage.

"Take Two"

"Take Two," the news magazine offered by KTVI at 6:30 p.m. on Saturdays, is off to a great start. The half-hour program, which is built around the talents of anchor Don Marsh and reporters Bonita Kornute and Paul Schankman, includes the kind of long-form stories which just do not make it onto most newscasts.

A recent effort (Oct. 24) featured a piece by Marsh which looked questioningly at those intersection asking motorists for money. Are they really in dire need or is it basically a rip-off?

Well, Marsh didn't give us any definitive answers—probably because there aren't any—but he did leave us with the impression that some of those folks collect a lot of money on a good day.

Marsh challenged one man on why he wasn't working at the fast-food restaurant across the street which displayed a "help wanted" sign.

He had applied, the man said. We don't have any such application, the restaurant manager said.

So the panhandler—accompanied by Marsh and the camera—went to the restaurant and applied (or re-applied, as the case may be) either "because we were there, or because he wanted to," Marsh said.

We don't know if he got the job, but we do know that Marsh, as usual, gave us the kind of careful journalism we have learned to expect from him. Ian MacBryde is an independent video producer and former television executive.

Movie capsules

By Harry Hamm
CorrespondentCaptain Ron

Flat comedy on the open seas as Martin Short fails at imitating Chevy Chase in a family comedy about an old yacht. (PG-13) Northwest Plaza, St. Clair, Crestwood, Regency, Namorell.

Consenting Adults

Wife-swapping in the suburbs leads to a yuppie murder mystery. Ex-St. Louisian Kevin Kline headlines this improbable but somewhat exciting movie. (R) Running time: 100 minutes. Clarksons, Des Peres, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Mid Rivers, Northwest Plaza, Ronnie's, St. Clair, Union Station, Regency, Galleria, Westroads, Eastgate.

Death Becomes Her

A special effects extravaganza about the quest for eternal youth, black magic and three people caught up in it all in the wilds of Beverly Hills. Goldie Hawn, Bruce Willis and Meryl Streep headline this entertaining black comedy with a message. (R) Running time: 112 minutes. Des Peres, Halls Ferry, Keller, Kenrick, Northwest Square, Galleria, Quad.

Hero

A strange but sometimes humorous story of a petty crook who becomes an unknown hero as he rescues passengers from an airline crash. Dustin Hoffman, Geena Davis and Andy Garcia headline. Mildly diverting. Strong cast. Too serious for its own good. (PG-13) Running time: 112 minutes. Des Peres, Halls Ferry, Keller, Kenrick, Northwest Square, Galleria, Quad.

Honeymoon in Vegas

An entertaining look about commitment and why you shouldn't play poker a few hours before you're supposed to get married. A nice couples' comedy starring Nicolas Cage and Sarah Jessica Parker. (PG-13) Running time: 100 minutes. Clarksons, Des Peres, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Mid Rivers, Northwest Plaza, St. Clair, Union Station, Regency, Galleria, Westroads.

Richard Parker (Kevin Kline) and his wife Priscilla (Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio) thought they had it all—until they met the new neighbors who had a little bit more, in "Consenting Adults."

Parker (PG-13) (adult language and mildly suggestive sexual situations). Running time: 100 minutes. Jamestown, St. Charles, Crestwood.

Last of the Mohicans
One of the best movies of the year. A splendid retelling of the classic novel about love, patriotism, madness and sacrifice. Daniel Day-Lewis and Madeleine Stowe headline. Don't miss it. (PG-13) Running time: 111 minutes. Clarksons, Des Peres, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Mid Rivers, Ronnie's, St. Clair, Union Station, Northwest Square, Esquire, Eastgate, Quad.

Mr. Baseball
Tom Selleck is funny as an ex-baseball player for the New York Yankees whose "sagging" career forces him to play ball in Japan. Selleck's role fits his personality and talents well. Entertaining. (PG-13) Running time: 100 minutes. Clarksons, Des Peres, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Mid Rivers, Ronnie's, St. Clair, Union Station, Northwest Square, Esquire, Eastgate, Quad.

Public Eye
Versatile Joe Pesci plays a dogged New York news photographer in 1942 trying to elevate his art and take care of a damsel in distress. Evocative story telling, nostalgic and well-produced. (R) Rated R (violence and adult language). Running time: 100 minutes. Halls Ferry, Keller, St. Clair, Westport, Regency, Esquire, Westroads.

A River Runs Through It
A beautiful, poetic story of family life, brotherhood, fly-fishing and communication set in the wilds of Montana and directed by Robert Redford. An unforgettable film with Academy Award potential. Don't miss it. (PG) (some adult language). Running time: 123 minutes. Clarksons, Kenrick, St. Clair, Hi Pointe, Northwest Square.

Sister Act
Predictable but enjoyable tale of a young nun facing ethnic intolerance at a New England prep school where he's a football star. (PG-13) Running time: 100 minutes. Clarksons, Des Peres, Eureka, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Mid Rivers, Ronnie's, St. Clair, Union Station, Northwest Square, Esquire, Eastgate, Quad.

(PG-13) Running time: 121 minutes. Clarksons, Des Peres, Halls Ferry, Kenrick, Northwest Plaza, Ronnie's, St. Clair, Regency, Esquire.
